The initiatives and support for the Eradication of Child Labour in India, through the government sector, non-government sector, judiciary, social workers and public at large has raised hopes for creating mass movement against the menace of child labour and provide universal compulsory education for children. Legislation relating to the regulation of child labour concentrates mainly on four basic issues;

Education especially for women is an important agent of socialization, and instrument of social transformation, and a channel of social mobility and equity. Education of girls and women has to be a universal movement for their empowerment, for changing current stereo-typed and replacing the existing structures.

Within an overall orientation toward girls' education, OUR organisation is running this Programme being one of the parts of overall strategy of universalisation of Elementary Education. This is an alternative path to children who for different reasons cannot attend primary school e.g. girls who have to look after their younger siblings and attend to other domestic chores, working children etc.

POOR CHILD EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMME

The organisation conducted the programme in Patna District of Bihar State. Our constitution makers had known that India of their vision would not be a reality if the country's children are not nurtured and educated. Article 24 dealing with prohibition of employment of children in factories and Article 45 relating to provision of free compulsory education for children bear testimony to this realisation. The other prohibition of traffic in human beings and forced labour (Article 23) and certain principles of policy to be followed by the State stipulates that children be secured against exploitation.

Child labour in India is more of a rural than urban phenomenon. Approximately, 90 percent of the working children in the rural areas are employed in agriculture and allied activities. The unorganised and informal sectors, both in urban and informal sectors, both in urban and rural areas, account for almost the entire child labour force.

EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

The organisation conducted the programme in Patna District of Bihar State. Education is a prime determinant of human development. Progress of a community in education may be viewed from several angles and hence different indices of educational achievement may be used. This has been also the focus of successive five-year plans. Bihar lags behind not only in containing population growth to manageable limits but also in realizing the goals fixed on the health front.

As we know that the increased access to equality health care services has been one of the thrust areas of the social development programmes being undertaken in the country. Technological advances and the extension in the infrastructure network has resulted in a decline in mortality. But the burden of disease continues to be important. Our Society organized a series of health camps on a regular basis in different districts of Bihar.
